Sajid Chaudhry

SAJID CHAUDHRY, a former government servant in Pakistan, a seasoned engineer by profession, now brings his second installment of Punjabi poetry. His first publication, Rango Rangi, was greatly appreciated and inspired this second book. Chaudhry hails from Punjab, Pakistan where he finished his professional degree in engineering and worked in various positions including General Manager, Director Engineering and Director General. He inherited his love for poetry from his father who used to say and recite wonderful poetry, but unfortunately passed away before he could document his work. Chaudhry remained fully involved in his education and professional life and did not explore this creative outlet of poetry until 1999. His first ghazal shared at Mela CharaghaN "mushaira" at Lahore was very well received. Chaudhry currently resides in USA with his family. In his free time, Chaudhry remains involved in professional, social and literary organizations and continues to write and share his poetry with the community.

Apni Punjabi shaairi de pehle paragay 'Rango Rangi' di ishaat de kujh arsa baad hi iss hathli kitab lai mawad te maujood ho gaya si. Per edhi ishaat hun saalaN pichhoN mumkin hoi ay. Eh chand warqay kathhay kardian enay saal kiweiN lag gaye. Iss gal da vairwa karan lai khaure enay saal hor lag jaan gay. Ehdai hasb-e-haal mera ik bait mulahiza howe.
